Daily Capital Journal

BY HOFER BROTHERS.

FRIDAY, FEB. 28, 1906.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of COUNTY ASSESSOR subject to the will of the county Republican convention.

J. A. VAN EATON.

Mitchell and McBride both voted for Morrill's motion to take up the house tariff bill.

THE JOURNAL can't argue with a paper that has a man holding down a job in every department.

Mosquitos and spring flowers come together in February. The former last a month; the latter until December.

Opportunities are not lying around loose for you to pick up, young man. You must make an opportunity for yourself.

Having tried the uncertainties of this world, Mrs. Lease is going to try the uncertainties of the next.

The best primary election law ever enacted has been knocked out on a technicality by the supreme court of California.

There is an occasional opportunity for a good man to serve the people, but, alas! where is the good man? Or, if he is found, how get him harnessed to the opportunity?

Every cyclist is an advocate of good roads. They should be taxed to maintain them, and then they would still more appreciate them.

Who will take Bill Nye's place? We mean in this world.—JOURNAL.

The colonel, perhaps, in this world, but not in the next, for we believe Bill Nye went to heaven.—Salem Post.

See here, are we to have your company forced upon us in the hereafter too? One evening paper will be enough in the next world.

We have a great country with 70,000,000. But we cannot live on greatness and numbers. The people must be employed in order to live and prosper. That can only be done under fearless application of the Republican doctrine of protection to all American industries.

Subscriber objects to THE JOURNAL criticising the Statesman. It is rather small business. Salem has no Democratic paper and the people like to have the opposing view brought out. Oregonians says there are too many Republicans anyhow and is doing all in its power to cut down the party to more comfortable proportions. A party has no business to be so large and unwieldy that a few men or one or two newspapers cannot control it. The Republican party ought to be tended by a cheap man and a dog, the Oregonian seems to think.

The editor of the Portland Weekly Newsday has his troubles as well as other journalists. His last issue has this: "Two boys, one night, when on Morrison street near Second, collided with a ferocious individual known as 'Umbrella Jim,' his real name is James Sheridan, and became involved in a violent encounter, from which the young men came out victorious. Jimmy then went to Third and Washington streets and tried to choke the editor of this paper because he was a friend of the young men."

SOME MARCH MAGAZINES.

Notes on Some Important Forthcoming Publications.

From Flag to Monitor is the title of a new story for boys of public school life in England, by Andrew Home, the author of "Through Thick and Thin" and other well-known boys' classics.

The Washington Educational Review of Tacoma is at hand for February. It has articles on the education of the Greek people and on Shakspeare that are above the average quality of matter printed in educational magazines.

Macmillan & Co. have in press a volume of Studies in Judaism, by Mr. S. Schechter, Reader in Rabbinate in the University of Cambridge, which deal in a scholarly manner with many somewhat obscure topics in connection with the Jewish faith.

"Pleasant Hours" for boys and girls is the best 10 cent monthly we have seen. Twenty-two features and choice illustrations, with matter appropriate to the season, in each issue, make it a complete publication. Frank Leslie's Pub. House, New York.

House keepers will be especially happy over the forthcoming number of Table Talk (the American authority on culinary matters). Our readers are invited to send for a sample copy, which will be mailed to them free upon application to Table Talk Publishing Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

The Overland Monthly is out for March, with one of its perfectly original cover pages by Pierre Boeringer. An educational department is added, with an able paper by William H. Hudson, professor of English literature in the Leland Stanford Jr. university. We do not know as it is in the line of commercial success, but this magazine should be in the hands of all our teachers who can afford to buy it, and we can club it cheaply.

The leading article in the March number of the Forum will be contributed by the eminent French novelist and critic, Th. Bentzon (Madame Blanc). Madame Blanc contrasts "Family Life in America" with family life in France, frankly criticising certain phases of American home-life. Mme. Blanc declares, however, that, with certain reservations, which she mentions in her article, she shall be delighted to see French society become more and more Americanized, and that in her opinion the type of the American family is very likely the one that will at last prevail—a profoundly interesting article.

Just a few suggestions of the approach of spring and the coming of Easter give a refreshingly poetic and timely interest to the March Ladies' Home Journal, which in its literary, artistic and more practical features, is exceptionally strong and unusually attractive. The number opens with a fascinating story by the late Eugene Field—"The Werewolf." It is explained by the editor that "The Werewolf" is the only manuscript by the lamented poet and story-writer that has not been published, and that it was written and re-written eight times by the author before it exactly met his approval. It is probably one of the best of all Mr. Field's writings. Howard Pyle has illustrated the story admirably.

Professor Sidney Sherwood, of John Hopkins University, has contributed a noteworthy paper to the March Forum, entitled "An Alliance With England the Basis of a Rational Foreign Policy." Professor Sherwood contends that the economic changes of our century are rapidly pushing us into a position where we shall be obliged in self-defence to take an active part in the politics of Europe and Asia. He advocates the negotiation of a treaty with England which would recognize and define the Monroe Doctrine, a Monroe Doctrine not based upon a weekly sentimentality but a strong common-sense which recognized that America, by welcoming the most civilized industry and government, was securing its best interests.

In McClure's Magazine for March is brought to light a speech of 1837 by Abraham Lincoln, which the biographers until now, seemingly, have known nothing of, though it contains passages still of the highest interest. For example, of politicians, Lincoln says: "A set of men who have interests aside from the interests of the people, and who, to say the most of them, are taken as a mass, at least one long step removed from honest men. I say this with the greater freedom, because, being a politician myself, none can regard it as personal." There are also an amusingly judicious love proposal of Lincoln's, and some lively reminiscences of him as the leader in a successful manoeuvre to establish the State capital at Springfield, and as a young lawyer in that smart, new town. The pictures are numerous, and include four portraits of Lincoln.

Superintendent Thomas Byrnes, the recently re-elected chief of police of New York, has just completed a remarkable work—"Professional Criminals of America." It contains a gallery of over 400 pictures, taken from life, of the most celebrated criminals; burglars, counterfeiters, pickpockets, bank sneaks, shoplifters, etc., a majority of whom are now plying their vocations in our midst. It contains their descriptions, records and present whereabouts, and is brought down to date. It is a voluminous work of quarto size, and should be invaluable to police officers, judges, prosecuting officers, banks, to many mercantile houses, and others liable to come in contact with and be victimized by these most dangerous criminals. It contains a great amount of matter, particularly interesting to the general public, which has heretofore been hidden in the police archives. The book will be issued at once by G. W. Dillingham, New York, and will be sold by subscription, price $5.

In none of his papers upon "This Country of Ours" has ex-President Harrison delivered himself with such vehemence and emphasis as he has in the one in the March Ladies' Home Journal, "The President's Duties." Besides commending one of Mr. Cleveland's acts, and censuring an Ambassador for making political speeches, he talks of presidential appointments in a most feeling and almost pathetic way. Upon the latter theme, in giving endorsement to Civil Service Reform, he says: "In spite of all the difficulties that beset the question of removals and appointments it must be conceded that much progress in the direction of a betterment of the service has been made. The Civil Service Rules have removed a large number of minor offices in the departments at Washington, and in the postal and other services, from the scramble of politics, and have given the president, the cabinet officers and the members of congress great relief; but it still remains true that in the power, of appointment to office the president finds the most exacting, unrelenting and distracting of his duties. In the nature of things he begins to make enemies from the start, and has no way of escape—it is fate; and to a sensitive man involves much distress of mind. His only support is in the good opinion of those who chiefly care that the public business shall be well done, and are not disturbed by the consideration whether this man or that man is doing it; but he hears very little directly from this class. No president can conduct a successful administration without the support of congress, and this matter of appointments, do what he will, often weakens that support. It is for him always a sort of compromise between his ideal and the best attainable thing."

John H. Mitchell's patriotic advocacy of independent bimetalism will endear him to the heart of citizens of all parties.

A Startling Admission.
In New York City, for five consecutive years, the proportion of Deaths from Consumption has been three in every Twenty Persons.

Epidemics of Cholera, Yellow Fever and other diseases of similar character, so terrible in their results, occasion wide spread alarm and receive the most careful consideration for their prevention and cure, while consumption receives scarcely a thought, yet the number of their victims sinks into insignificance when compared with those of consumption. Comparatively few people know what to do for their loved ones when they see them gradually lose strength, lose color, manifest feeble vitality and emaciation, or develop a cough, with difficult breathing, or hemorrhage. Cod liver oil was for a long time given in all such cases, but the poor success attending its use coupled with its nauseating taste has led many practitioners, as well as the public at large, to place their main reliance in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It demands every attention and will prove effective in every case but in a large percentage of cases, and we believe that fully 98 per cent of all cases of consumption can, if taken in the early stages of the disease, be cured with the "Discovery." Dr. Pierce does not ask people to believe until they have investigated for themselves. A pamphlet has been published having the names, addresses and photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies which will be mailed free to those sending for it with their names and address upon a postal card, or you can have a medical treatise, in book form of 160 pages, mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. You can then write those cured and learn their experiences.

Of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway and note its connection with all transcontinental lines at St. Paul and Omaha, and remember when going east that its trains are lighted with electricity and heated by steam. Its equipment is superb. Elegant buffet, library, smoking and sleeping cars, car seats with electric reading lamp, and its dining cars are the best in the world.
